

Candidates supported by Momentum

About Momentum - Momentum evolved out of Jeremy Corbyn's 2015 Labour leadership bid to build on the energy and enthusiasm generated by the campaign. Momentum supports the Labour party, and works to increase participation and engagement in the party to enable it to win elections and enter Government. Momentum believes in an open, democratic Labour party, powered by its members. (from the Momentum Website – 5/06/2017)

National Constitutional Committee Election 2017

Nominate Anna Dyer

After one term as a member, I am seeking re-election to the National Constitutional Committee (NCC) at a vital time for those who believe that a Party which is fighting for a more democratic and equal society should itself demonstrate transparency, equality and fairness in its own internal governance and conduct.

During my time on the NCC relatively few cases have come to the NCC when it has been clear to me that major disciplinary matters which have been the subject of media coverage have not been referred to the elected committee set up to deal with this.

The Chakrabarti Inquiry however has put forward recommendations for consideration on improving disciplinary procedures in the Party and the need for clearly defined policies.

The major step which I advocate in achieving the principles of a fairer and more just system is to ensure that the NCC has direct elections. It is an anomaly to be elected by delegates only at Conference which in the current economic climate denies a voice to those CLPs which are too poor or distant to afford the high costs of sending a delegate to Conference. I myself am only too aware of the situation as member of a CLP from a deprived area and attending only a few conferences during my 30 years in the Party.

From a working class family I went on to manage civil society and governance projects for the EU in Eastern Europe. A member of Unite and a trade union member for over 30 years, I have been a Parliamentary List candidate and CLP Women's Officer. I have extensive experience in policy-making and governance as Chair of Scotland's second largest community-owned social enterprise and elected representative for the Voluntary Sector on the City Council Community Planning Partnership.

National Constitutional Committee Election 2017

Nominate Emine Ibrahim

I am seeking nomination by your CLP for election to the National Constitutional Committee (NCC). The election will take place in September at Party annual conference and will be elected by CLP delegates.

I am an experienced party member and currently represent CLP's in North and East London on London Regional Board. I have previously been a Ward Chair and Vice Chair of Hornsey and Wood Green CLP before my election as a Councillor in the London Borough of Haringey in 2014, defeating sitting Liberal Democrat Cllrs in a tightly fought marginal ward. As a trade unionist, I am Branch Secretary of Redbridge Unison in East London and am also a Co-operative Party member.

I have always been a strong believer in the importance of the party rule book and ensuring it is applied in a fair and just manner. I have experience of dealing with both sides of internal disciplinary matters, whether it is supporting a member or sitting on regional membership appeals and panel appeals for Local Government selections.

I believe in ensuring the integrity of the process in order to achieve fairness for all. If we ensure the rules are applied fairly to all then we will achieve a unified and effective Party.

Conference Arrangements Committee Election 2017

Nominate Billy Hayes

Time for renewal

We need a fresh approach to the Conference Arrangements Committee. That is why I am seeking election to the CAC.

The election for the CAC will be under one member one vote.

We need to look at our party, not through the prism of the Westminster bubble. We need to view it through the lens as seen by the rank and file member. The people that walk the streets, staff the phone bank, or use social media to promote our values day in and day out. There is a need to respect and re-connect to our base. The CAC can be an important conduit to winning power for Labour.

As a Labour Party member of 41 years, I have the experience to copper fasten changes that have taken place, and look to strengthen our coalition. I remain an activist committed to the return of a Labour Government and at every level where Labour can make a change to our society.

*I have been a member of a trade union all my working life; GMB, USDAW
CWU 18 years as a lay activist
9 years a National Officer
14 years as General Secretary of CWU

Conference Arrangements Committee Election 2017

Nominate Seema Chandwani

Our biggest asset as a political party is our members, they know what the political solutions are in their communities. Conference enables our grassroots members to turn those ideas into policies and create a manifesto of social change which allows the next Labour government to improve and develop our country.

I have been a CLP Secretary in Tottenham for over 4 years, a role that is pivotal in engaging our members and transforming them from a mailing list to activists. Our challenge now is to enhance how the Labour party conference operates and be more inclusive, engaging, accessible and productive. I wish to stand to be your representative on the Conference Arrangement Committee to ensure it is led by grassroots members and ensures ordinary lay-activists' voices are heard.

I work in the charity sector as a Corporate Liaison Manager, working with major multi-national companies including PWC, AOL, BT and Santander to increase their social responsibility by giving back to local communities. Previously I worked for the Suzy Lamplugh Trust campaigning on the Deregulation Bill and managed National Personal Safety Awareness week with several Police forces across the country. I was also the Service Manager for the National Stalking Helpline and the Operations Director at the Damilola Taylor Trust working with families who lost children to gun and knife crime.

I believe that I have the experience with engaging grassroots members to transform how our conference operates. Within my working life I have refined many skills in negotiation, advocacy, policy development and campaigning which I believe are vital for the role.
